YARROWS GET $50,000 REPAIR JOB TO SHIP

Work on Bonneville Will Keep 150 Men Employed Eighteen Days

Freighter Now Discharging Lumber Cargo Preparatory to Entering Drydock

The $50,000 repair job to the Norwegian motorship Bonneville, which was damaged when she struck on Miami Reef last Saturday morning in a dense fog, was to-day awarded to Yarrows Limited of Esquimalt. The work will take from sixteen to eighteen days and will give much needed employment to about 150 men of Victoria and district.

Much satisfaction was felt when the successful bidder was announced at noon by Toralf Ostbye, Seattle, representative of the Norwegian Bureau Veritas, with which the Bonneville is insured and registered.

The Bonneville is now at Ogden Point discharging 1,000,000 feet of lumber. She will return to Esquimalt on Saturday and will be floated into the Dominion Government drydock. Many plates and frames forward, where her hull came in contact with the rocks, will have to be replaced.

WINS OVER THREE Yarrows won the contract over three other bidders, the Victoria Machinery Depot, the Wallace Shipyard of North Vancouver and the Todd Drydock Company of Seattle. Victorians are quite pleased over the success of Yarrows in face of the spirited bidding.

The Bonneville, a ship of 4,965 tons, is one of the most modern freighters afloat. She was built in 1925 in Norway.

Most of the lumber now being discharged from the Bonneville was loaded at Barnett, a lumber port near Vancouver, last week. At the time of her grounding she was proceeding from the mainland to Chemainus to complete her cargo. There was a dense fog at the time. She remained ashore for twenty-four hours when she was hauled off by the steamer Salvage King of Victoria. Her machinery was not damaged by the impact with the rocks and she was able to go around to Ogden Point from Esquimalt under her own steam.

When repaired she will return to Ogden Point to discharge her cargo and then go to Chemainus to finish.

JAPAN GIVES POSITION IN MANCHURIA

Tokio Communique Emphasizes No Territorial Ambition in Occupied Zone

Tokio, Sept. 24.—The Japanese Government issued a statement to-day explaining its position in Manchuria, and emphasizing that Japan entertained absolutely no territorial ambitions in Manchuria. This position, said the government, it had often stated previously.

Japan's sole aim, it added, was to give security to the nations under treaty right might carry on their enterprises in safety.

The government's statement of policy followed its previous announcement that Japanese troops were being withdrawn from points outside the zone of the South Manchurian railway, Japanese owned.

Clashes Saturday between Japanese and Chinese troops at Mukden and several other Manchurian cities caused casualties on both sides and resulted in the Japanese taking possession of the zone along the 600 miles of the railway.

The government's statement concerning the Manchurian situation sets forth that Japan's chief purpose is to afford guarantees for safety of investments. It then explains the sequence of events.

Death Removes Familiar Figure

THE LATE WILLIAM HENDERSON

Wm. Henderson Dies At Great Age To-day

Former Resident Dominion Architect Succumbs At Age of Ninety-four Years

Known Throughout B.C. As "Grand Old Man of Freemasonry"

William Henderson, well-known resident of Victoria, for fifty-five years a member of the Dominion Government service, and affectionately known to members of the Masonic craft throughout British Columbia as the "Grand Old Man of Freemasonry," passed away this morning at the family residence, 2150 Oak Bay Avenue, at the advanced age of ninety-four years.

His death removes a picturesque figure from the life of Victoria, for until comparatively recently Mr. Henderson retained an amazingly youthful vigor and alertness, and almost to the last was a constant attendant at Henderson Lodge, A.F. & A.M., which was named in his honor.

For over fifty-five years Mr. Henderson was in the service of the Dominion Government, first in Ottawa, then in Battleford and Regina, and was Dominion resident architect at Victoria from 1896 to 1925, in which year he was superannuated.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, on February 26, 1837, the year in which the late Queen Victoria ascended the throne, Mr. Henderson came to Canada in 1857, settling in Ottawa. In the same year he joined the Dominion Government staff, but after a few years returned to Scotland. The trip home was fraught with adventure, as the ship, the North Briton, founded on November 5, 1861, while off the coast of Labrador.

Fortunately no lives were lost, but Mr. Henderson was one of a party of three who were saved.

Position of U.S. Farmer On Beer Issue

Washington, Sept. 24.—The agriculture department is investigating to ascertain the possible effects of the legalization of beer on the farmer.

Secretary Hyde revealed this fact to-day in saying many requests for information on this subject have reached his office. The secretary said none of these requests came from the White House.

Asked if this information could be submitted to President Hoover, Hyde said it would not go to him directly but might reach him through the press. Hyde said he had intended for some time to initiate such an investigation to determine exactly the number of farmers who might be employed raising hops, barley and similar ingredients, should the making of real beer become legal.

LORD BYNG WILL RETIRE

Definitely Announces Retirement as Chief Commissioner of Metropolitan Police

Former Governor-General Is Forced Into Background By Ill-health

London, Sept. 24.—Viscount Byng of Vimy, former Governor-General of Canada, to-day definitely announced he would retire from the chief commissioner-ship of the Metropolitan Police at the end of this month.

The retirement will mark the close of Lord Byng's active public career.

REORGANIZED FORCE Lord Byng is sixty-nine years of age. He has been commissioner of the Metropolitan Police—and head of Scotland Yard—since 1928. During his term of office he has effected a fairly sweeping reorganization of London's famous police force.

General Julian Hedworth Byng, first viscount, was well known to Canadians long before he became Governor-General of the Dominion. To General Byng generally goes the credit of first welding the Canadian corps in France, during the Great War, into the perfectly co-ordinated fighting machine that was taken over by General Sir Arthur Currie.

On account of ill-health Lord Byng has been forced to spend many months of the year away from London. Reports of his retirement had been current for a long time.

Canadian Press New York, Sept. 24.—The Canadian dollar was quoted at 84½ per cent on local foreign exchange markets at the close of banking operations to-day. This was the lowest quotation of the day and ¼ higher than yesterday's close. The dollar opened this morning at 82 cents in United States funds, which is the highest rate of the day. At noon it was quoted at 82, and at 3 p.m. it rose to 83.

Canadian Press New York, Sept. 24.—The pound sterling to-day sank to $3.83 for cable transfers on local foreign exchange markets at the close of banking hours.

This was only eight cents above the lowest point reached during the present movement and seventeen cents below the closing and prevailing rate yesterday. The lowest point in a decade, $3.75, was reached Monday.

Pacific Relations Conference Held Up By Oriental Crisis

Fourth Biennial Meeting of Institute, Planned to Open at Hangchow October 21, Indefinitely Postponed; Hon. Vincent Massey, Representing Canada, Now in Far East

Shanghai, China, Sept. 24.—The dispute between China and Japan over the latter's occupation of southern Manchuria caused the indefinite postponement to-day of the fourth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which had planned to convene at Hangchow, near here, October 21.

Institute authorities said they felt that the disturbed relations between the two countries would make it impossible for Japanese and Chinese delegates to meet in a friendly spirit such as the organization strived to promote.

As the postponement was announced, a majority of the delegates from American, Great Britain and the British Empire were already en route to the Orient to attend the meeting.

Official announcement of the postponement was withheld pending a meeting between Jerome D. Greene, chairman of the Pacific Council, the institute's governing body, and British, Canadian and Japanese members of the council at Yokohama next Saturday. Preparations for a formal conference were abandoned, however, in favor of having the various Occidental delegations travel through Japan and China studying Oriental problems on the ground, and meeting in Japan those from the island empire who would have attended Hangchow meeting.

Similar conferences among the Occidental and Chinese delegates were planned.

COUNCIL TO MEET Despite the postponement of the main conference, the Institute's Pacific Council and Research Council will meet here about October 12 to discuss the future, especially a five-year research programme for which the Rockefeller Foundation recently gave $250,000.

The institute is composed of prominent individuals of the various countries bordering on the Pacific, and its purposes are to discuss the political, social and economic problems of that area.

Baldwin Uncommunicative About Termination of Present Session of Parliament When Pressed This Afternoon by Henderson, Opposition Leader; Platform of National Government Led by MacDonald Expected to Be on Protection Issue; Rumors Flying Fast in Parliamentary Circles

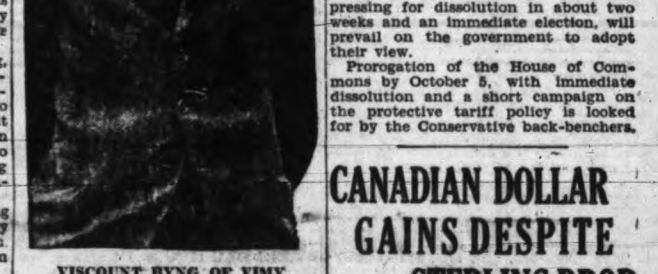

Canadian Press London, Sept. 24.—The government was challenged in the House of Commons this afternoon by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, Labor opposition leader, who demanded to know when the government hoped to bring to an end this part of the session.

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Leader and Acting Prime Minister, replied a statement would be made as soon as the government was able to say positively when the legislative business would be concluded. He was not in a position now to give that statement.

Mr. Henderson then gave notice he would repeat his question on Monday. The main topic in political circles at the moment is whether the Conservative back-benchers, who are pressing for dissolution in about two weeks and an immediate election, will prevail on the government to adopt their view.

Prorogation of the House of Commons by October 5, with immediate dissolution and a short campaign on the protective tariff policy is looked for by the Conservative back-benchers.

CANADIAN DOLLAR GAINS DESPITE STERLING DROP

Holders of Bonds and Stocks Cashing in on Big Premiums in New York

Despite a further swift collapse in the price of the pound sterling, the Canadian dollar more than held its own to-day.

From the $4.38-$4.51 level of yesterday in Victoria, the pound sterling today broke to $4.05-$4.18. In New York sterling was down to $2.83.

The Canadian dollar, which was quoted by Victoria banks at 92½ to 94½. This was a gain of around one cent over yesterday's level in the face of the drastic pound sterling situation.

Local offices of Canadian banks were to-day advising their customers that the pound sterling would gradually ease off to the $3 level before it would receive support, and business men could base their future requirements on that basis.

WORLD'S PRODUCTION OF WHEAT TAKES BIG SLUMP

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 24.—World wheat production in 1931, exclusive of Russia and China, is estimated to be 225,000,000 bushels less than in 1930, according to a statement issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to-day. To the foregoing amount will have to be added any deficiency in the 1931 Russian crop, compared to production in 1930.

It is generally recognized that Soviet production this year is less than in 1930.

The decline in world wheat production in 1931 is due to smaller spring wheat crops in North America, drastic reductions in early estimates of the European crop, an estimated decrease of 57,000,000 bushels in the Indian wheat crop and reduced prospects from the Argentine and Australia as a result of major reductions in acreage.

The largest reductions in estimated yields have taken place in France, Germany, Spain and Czechoslovakia. Early estimates placed the 1931 French wheat crop at 270,000,000 bushels, but it is now estimated at 257,000,000 bushels. The German crop is now officially estimated at 186,000,000 bushels; Spain, 130,000,000 bushels and Czechoslovakia 38,000,000 bushels.

MATERIALISTIC VIEWS OF SCIENCE GO BY BOARD
 General Jan Smuts, in Presidential Address Before British Association, Sees Revelation of New World; Commonsense Trinity of Life, Matter and Mind, Reinterpreted and Transformed

Canadian Press
 London, Sept. 24.—General Jan Smuts, soldier and statesman, appeared in a new light yesterday evening. Addressing one of the greatest gatherings of scientists ever assembled at the centenary meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in his capacity as president he furnished a "scientific world picture of to-day" which for breadth of vision, and courageous treatment of the groupings of science towards a world which science has rejected years ago as "immortal," and not less for beauty of phrase, will go down as a worthy signpost marking the commencement of the universe's second hundred years.

SEEDS OF FUTURE
 "But underneath this placid surface, the seeds of the future were germinating. With the coming of the twentieth century, fundamental changes began to set in. The new point of departure was reached when physical science ceased to confine its attention to the material, and began to deal with the things that appear to the senses, it found, or invented, at the base of the world so-called scientific entities, not capable of direct observation, but which are necessary to account for the facts of observation. Thus, below molecules and atoms still more ultimate entities appeared; radiations, and the elements which underlie and form our world of matter. Matter itself, the time-honored mother of all, practically disappeared into electricity."

ORGANIC UNIVERSE
 Even if life be merely a terrestrial phenomenon, it is not so mean in an alien environment, if, as we have seen reason to think, this is an essentially organic universe. In its organic aspects the physical and the mental are actually reached at only one insignificant point in the universe. The potencies of the universe are fundamental, and of the same order as its actualities. Then again, it is possible that the physical configurations of the universe are permeated with the mental, and the mental with the physical. We have no experience or conception; forms of life which are not, like ours, of the hydro-carbon type, but which exist in other parts of the universe. In any case, the very possibility of science depends on an intimate relation between the physical and the mental. Only thus can the concepts of mind come to be a measure for the facts of the universe, and the laws of nature come to be revealed as the laws of the human mind. Besides science, we have other forms of this inner relation between the mind and the universe, such as poetry, music, art and religion. The human spirit is not a pathetic wandering shadow of the universe, but meets with spiritual hospitality and response in the vastness of the universe. It is now regressing to simpler forms—perhaps for good, perhaps only to restart another cycle of organization. But inside this cosmic process of development, there is a smaller but far more significant movement—a streaming, protoplasmic tendency, an embryonic infant world emerging, throbbing with the life of the universe, and the rational and spiritual self-realization.

COMMON-SENSE THEORY
 General Smuts argued that the old "common-sense" theory of matter, life and mind, was being replaced by a new "organization" or "organism" theory. And as he continued, he remarked in a grave aside: "A serious lag is developing between the rapidly advancing scientific development of the modern state and its stationary ethical development, a lag which has already found expression in the greatest tragedies of history. Science must itself help to close this dangerous gap in our advance, which threatens the disruption of our civilization and the decay of our species. Its final and perhaps most difficult task will be found there. Science may be destined to become the greatest drive to ethical values."

NOBLE TRIBUTE TO FARADAY IS PAID BY SMUTS
 Famous South African Opens Exhibition Marking Centenary of Electrical Wizard

Canadian Press
 London, Sept. 24.—"Faraday was probably the greatest experimenter in the history of science. But the wonderful thing about him was not only his scientific insight, his sureness of intuition, and his prophetic anticipation of later developments," declared General Jan Smuts, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in an address which opened the great Faraday Centenary Exhibition yesterday afternoon.

IDEAL OF SCIENCE
 "I congratulate electricians that they can claim as their own, as their foremost figure, one who may rightly be considered the very ideal of a scientific man. Science, like religion, has its patron saint. In Faraday the patron saint worthy to be ranked with the highest in the religious calendar. Men of science sometimes share the weakness of human nature in the desire of self, but here we have one in whom high scientific genius was combined with the most touching simplicity, purity and nobility of character. He was a great puritan, a great saint, a great master of his art; not only a king of thought, but a humble laborer in the scientific field, setting the pace and comforting the sick and suffering. To think of Faraday the scientist is to be conscious of our own insignificance beside towering genius."

ELECTRO-MAGNETISM
 The greatness of Faraday as a scientist can be seen from another point of view. The two principles of the conservation of energy and organic evolution are generally considered the most fruitful and significant contributions of science in the nineteenth century. With these we have undoubtedly bracketed a third generalization—the laws of electro-magnetism. Recent advances in physics have given to these laws an added importance, and to-day it may be said without exaggeration that these laws are of fundamental importance to the constitution of matter as we know it. The very constitution of matter has turned out to be electrical; the ultimate pre-atomic constituents of the world are electrically charged. The governing concepts and experimental principles which underlie the laws of electro-magnetism have given to these laws an added importance, and to-day it may be said without exaggeration that these laws are of fundamental importance to the constitution of matter as we know it.

TAX COLLECTIONS MAY PASS YEAR'S ESTIMATE
 despite economic conditions, a full 88 per cent of the levy will be collected, as anticipated at the first of the year in the estimates, with a possibility of topping this proportion. These figures are based mainly on the exceptionally fine percentage of taxes collected under the prepayment system this year.

Five Members For Commission On Railways
 Canadian Press
 Ottawa, Sept. 24.—With the appointment of a royal commission to the railway situation in the office of the minister of transport, the government is giving consideration to the personnel of the commission. Canadian National Railways, and the Pacific Railway, despite a report of contrary publicity yesterday, members of the commission. It is operative action in the study of way conditions, the present feeling that the hands of the two bodies would be valuable members.

FINANCIAL INCREASE
 In the first year, 1932, only 670 persons were assessed for a total amounting to just under $200,000. Next year there was a rush of the smaller property holders to get their bills paid early, the total jumping to 1,700, and the amount assessed since then. In 1932, 3,225 persons prepaid $559,975, and in 1930 the total payments were $625,021 by 3,494 persons. This year an all-time record was set with 3,724 bills for a total of 738,177.86 coming in before the end of August. This sum amounts to 40.56 per cent of the total levy, and incidentally, almost 80 per cent of the collection anticipated.

Physician thinks highly of Pacific Milk

It was necessary for us to have lots of milk. We were moving to a remote district. There is a sick child in our family, and we are in doubt. I consulted a physician in Vancouver and he recommended Pacific Milk.

Mrs. C. E. Emery, writing from the interior, says she thought we would like to know this. Very much. We are very thankful.

STEVEDORE HELD For Questioning On Collings's Death

New York, Sept. 24.—Timothy Quinn, forty, a stevedore, was subjected to prolonged questioning today in connection with the killing of Benjamin P. Collings, who was bound and thrown from his yacht in Long Island Sound two weeks ago.

District Attorney Alexander G. Blue of Suffolk County, said Quinn was not under arrest, and would not be detained.

Police said Quinn had been arrested three times on suspicion of murder and had escaped from several insane asylums.

The police said Quinn was thoroughly familiar with the north shore of Long Island, an expert boatman and a man of great physical strength.

Mrs. Collings' authorities, the men who boarded the Collings powerboat Penguin bound her husband and threw him into the Sound and took her off the boat in a canoe.

Blue has been proceeding on the theory that one of the assassins, described by Mrs. Collings, as a middle-aged man, was a lunatic.

CHINESE OF SAN FRANCISCO URGE BOYCOTT

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—A boycott of Japanese products by Chinese throughout the world was urged at a meeting here yesterday evening when the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Six Companies and the Kuomintang of America inaugurated the boycott as a protest to Japanese occupation of Mukden.

Arthur Wong, Chamber of Commerce president, headed the meeting here, and led the discussion. A protest mass meeting was scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Great China Theatre, to be followed by a children's protest parade.

Local Chinese, Wong said, "are all one to-day," regardless of their former affiliations with the Cantonese or Nationalist governments in China.

EDUCATION MACHINERY IS CLOGGED BY PROBLEM OF RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

Sir Charles Grant Robertson Tells British Association Education Section Problem Must Be Solved If Benefits to Be Widened

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 24.—"A social revolution largely due to the educational progress of the last hundred years, is steadily regressing and reshaping the whole commonwealth that we call the British Empire," declared Sir Charles Grant Robertson, C.V.O., in his presidential address before the educational science section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science today. "Education has extended the scale of social values, and increasingly intensified in millions of new recruits power to devise and the desire to will the means to action," he said.

"But the aid that our educational system can increasingly give to this complicated social and economic transformations is being limited because we have refused to solve the fundamental problem of religious instruction, and to allocate to institutional religion its harmonious place in the task of training for life. Until we have done that, no matter how scientifically planned may be our educational machinery, or how loyalty it may be worked, there will be a steady flow of grit clogging the gears and causing all the bearings to run red-hot."

SUPREMACY FUNCTION

"This is not the place, nor am I the person," Sir Charles continued, "to indicate how and where the true solution can be found; but if it be the supreme function of education to see life as a whole and to train every boy and girl according to their powers and aptitudes, to a maximum of vision and of a willing reason, so that they can ultimately achieve their truest happiness and their highest efficiency in the new social order, based on the correct allocation of differentiated function, it is my unshakable conviction that the fundamental place of religion in life must be regarded as an essential preliminary to any further educational advance."

SCIENCE OF PSYCHOLOGY

From his review Sir Charles drew four main conclusions which were bound to find a place in any forecast of the future.

"First," he said, "the science of psychology is obviously only in its infancy. I am not concerned with the innumerable possibilities opening up in the medical, and particularly the pathological, sphere and the field of therapeutic action. No sound educational results, so far as I can see, are going to come from assumption that it is the abnormal which is really normal, which is like assuming in medicine that disease is the rule and health the exception. I look to much real help coming from intelligence tests, however unsatisfactory they may be at present. If they can consistently establish that children and adolescents and adults in varying categories and different age levels have definite limits of educability, and it is a waste of time, effort and money to treat one category as if it were another, the doctrine of equality of opportunity will come to be regarded as a devastating superstition, and the grading of the categories on the educational ladder will be the beginning of an unparalleled social revolution."

"Secondly, human activities, professional or otherwise, will have to be regarded socially and economically in proportion to the degree of trained intelligence and revealed aptitude that they require for their true field. It is here that social and industrial psychology will find their true field. The difficulty will be the correlation of the industrial or occupational categories with the purely professional in the social organization, which means that the education, with the aid of psychology, will necessitate a revaluation of social values. Such a revaluation will at once raise the issue of the purely ethical values in the scale qualitatively considered."

"And that raises my second issue—the functional differentiation of the sexes. Women now have a virtual equality both in civic and educational status. Until 1921 it was inevitable that the struggle for this kind of equality, differentiation of function should be ignored or rejected. If women were to be able to do exactly what men did, their training must obviously be a copy of that which men had deemed necessary. But since 1921, when equality of opportunity for all careers had been conceded, a slow reaction began. Differential social and professional function, based on differential sex-qualities, reasserted their directive force—and will reassert it with increasing momentum.

COMPETITION OF SEXES

"Girls no longer feel it their duty to choose a particular career in order to emphasize a claim to equality of rights or to extirpate traditional social taboos. It must be the privilege of education to stimulate this marked tendency, and thereby to reduce a stupid competition of the sexes and cut down a costly social waste. For the social revolution, through which we are now passing, is slowly learning from the preceding political struggle for the so-called emancipation of women, that in a well-ordered society there are no monopolies of civic function or of intellectual or imaginative activity based on sex, but that there are limitations imposed on all in the form of physical, intellectual and moral qualities and aptitudes, inherent in the individual as such. Whether it be surgery or poetry, acting or nursing, teaching in a kindergarten or research, domestic administration or scavenging, will be a question of dressmaking, a trained woman may be the equal of a trained man or she may be a great deal worse than an untrained man. But it is also becoming clearer every day that for certain activities the average woman, if trained, is better than the average trained man, and vice-versa, and the difference in each case rests on a functional sex differentiation, of the criteria of which we are as yet amazingly ignorant."

Thirdly, the end and purpose of education has not yet been settled, and in the nature of things can never be settled for once and for all. We may, if we choose, hold differing views as to what mind is or how it originated or how, in the terms of a really scientific psychology, it works and can be distinguished from its manifestations. But the one clear conclusion that no one can evade is that every society everywhere, and therefore all such societies together on this tiny physical globe are, and will continue to be, the result of purposive human action, which by an increasing control of all the elements at its disposal has made things to be what they are, and is daily refining the process of adaptation to fit the purposes, wise or illusive, that it selects as ends worth pursuing."

HAWLEY-SMOOT TARIFF HELPED INDUSTRY HERE

Washington, Sept. 24.—Belief that retaliation against the Hawley-Smoot tariff had compelled many American factories to move to Canada was expressed yesterday by Representative H. C. Canfield, Indiana, Democrat.

His statement, issued through the Democratic national committee, said that American plants in Canada had increased from 467 with a value of $600,000,000 at the end of 1929, to 1,071 with an investment value of $1,189,500,000 a few days ago.

"The saddest part of the story," Mr. Canfield said, "is that these plants have moved to Canada to furnish that market and other foreign markets with goods that were formerly produced in this country, but to which world markets are all but closed by the tariffs other countries have imposed in retaliation to the Hawley-Smoot bill."

LINDBERGH'S ARE NOT BOTHERED BY REPORTERS

Nanking, China, Sept. 24.—Unmolested by reporters, photographers, reception committees and curious crowds for the first time since he became famous, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh today plunged heartily into his volunteer flood relief job.

Both the Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are finding Nanking's lack of interest in their fame refreshing. There were no crowds to follow them, and since last Saturday few newspapermen have broken their peace.

The fliers commented on their enjoyment of such obscurity and on the tranquility of somnolent Lotus Lake, the little lagoon where they landed upon flying to Nanking from Japan.

CRITICS PRAISE ETHEL LUENING HERE SATURDAY

Talented Canadian Soprano Will Give Varied Programme at Shrine Auditorium

Ethel Codd Luening, lyric soprano, will be heard here Saturday evening in the Shrine Auditorium. As Ethel Codd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Codd, much-loved singers, who were famous from Winnipeg to Victoria about fifteen years ago, she will be remembered by music lovers of Victoria and Vancouver and other cities of the west as the fifteen-year-old girl who in June, 1923, joined the chorus of a light opera company and in six weeks was prima donna.

Shortly afterward, Vladimir Rosing of the American Opera Company heard her sing and offered her a scholarship at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, New York. The following year she had the leading role in the first American performance of Mozart's "Seraglio," conducted by Eugene Goossens at Rochester. Of this appearance the critic of The Rochester Times-Union wrote:

"The outstanding individual success was scored last night by Ethel Codd, whose voice is not only the most important dramatic soprano in the way of volume yet presented by the company, but is also of very fine and even quality. She uses it with discretion and her execution of Mozart's exacting music was notably fluent, accurate and always gracefully musical."

A few months later she had a triumphant appearance in the same opera in New York City. "The best voice heard last night was the soprano of Miss Ethel Codd," wrote Pitts Sanborn of The New York Telegram.

Ethel Codd-Luening has appeared as soloist in Wagnerian arias with the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Eugene Goossens, and has been heard frequently in recitals in New York and throughout the East and Middle West.

RESEARCH MAKES GREAT STRIDES

Sir Joseph Thomson Deals With Physics Before World Scientists

Reviews Growth of Educational Opportunities Within Last Fifty Years

Canadian Press

London, Sept. 24.—"There is far more in physics than is dreamt of in our theories," Sir Joseph J. Thomson, distinguished mathematician and physicist, stressed in his presidential address to the mathematical and physical sciences section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. "Nature herself," he added, "is more suggestive of ideas than the minds of the most imaginative of us."

The ideas which revolutionize science are just those of which our theories give no indication. Theories are the very life-blood of physics, most of the researches in our laboratories originate in an attempt to test a theory; theory, however, may be injurious if it makes us concentrate our attention exclusively on the particular problem it suggested, and to treat as an annoyance, to be avoided by a change in method, any anomaly in the experiment which interferes with our progress to the goal; the anomaly may be the outcrop of a vein rich in new phenomena.

"I do not think that there is any danger of the supply of new physical phenomena being exhausted and of physicists joining the ranks of the unemployed. Rather do I believe that as each successive century comes round the president of Section A will be able to say that the growth of physics in the century which has just passed is comparable with that in any of its predecessors."

The sectional president confined his address to a review of the growth in opportunities for education and research in physics during the past fifty years. It could be claimed now that some science is taught in all schools, and a good deal of science in a great many of them. "This is a great advance and has practically all been made in the last fifty years," he said. "It cannot, however, be said that even now science occupies in our systems of education a place commensurate with its ever-increasing influence on human thought and with its importance in the progress of civilization." One defect of the present system in England at least, said the president, was that entrance scholarships offered by most of the great public schools had the effect of attracting the ablest boys to classics. The school examinations were now too specialized, he thought.

RESEARCH

Research is now an integral part of the training of a considerable number of students, and the importance of research for the welfare of the nation is universally recognized. He also pointed out, although this was quite a modern development, that the scientific method is not a new discovery, but a method of mass production to education," he said.

The demand in Cambridge at least for trained research workers had exceeded the supply until this year of acute and long-continued depression. Sir Joseph added: "With the gradual increase in industry's reliance on research wide fields had been opened up for research workers. There were now more than twenty special industrial groups which maintained research departments in co-operation with the government, in addition to the many government research boards dealing with such matters as forest products, radio, chemicals, food, fuel—not to mention the research departments of the Navy, Army and Air Force."

As for the advances in instruments and appliances for laboratory work, the progress was enormous. Some of the present-day physical research instruments were 10,000 times more efficient than the instruments used fifty years ago.

PHYSICAL PHENOMENA

"The additions to our knowledge of physical phenomena and to physical conceptions made in the last sixty years have not been exceeded by those made in any period of the history of the science," he concluded, "and yet I remember that at the beginning of this period the view was prevalent that all the fundamental principles of physics had been discovered and that the work of the future would be to develop and co-ordinate those principles and to measure them and more accurately the value of known physical constants. This view seems ludicrous when we know that within a few years Röntgen rays, the electron and radioactivity were discovered. The existence of these was quite unexpected, and no hint of the possibility of their existence was given by any of the physical theories then extant; this view was, however, to my knowledge, held by some eminent physicists. The great generalizations expressed by the first and second laws of thermodynamics looked so large in those days that it was thought that nothing was beyond their purview. This state of mind is apt to occur after a great discovery; it occurred after that of universal gravitation; there are signs that it exists now. Yet it has always been falsified by experience, and I think always will be. There are no signs that physics is approaching an asymptotic state in which the progress gets slower and slower as time goes on. The additions to our knowledge of physics made by our generation do not get smaller and smaller as one generation succeeds another, each great discovery is not a terminus but an avenue leading to new knowledge. An improvement in technique may, as we have seen, lead to fundamental changes in our views of the nature of matter and of physical processes."

PRETTY WEDDING AT LADYSMITH

Special to The Times

Ladysmith, Sept. 24.—A very pretty wedding took place Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Church, when Miss Sarah Margaret McNeil, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McNeil, became the bride of Dr. Arthur Turner Verchere, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Verchere. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father A. J. McLellan. The church was decorated with autumn flowers by the altar of the convent of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. The choir, under the direction of Sister Genevieve, rendered appropriate music during the nuptial mass, and two solos were sung by Sister Rose Genevieve.

The bride looked charming in a gown of imported white French crepe, made with short jacket and closely fitted hips, from which the skirt fell in long and graceful folds to the top of her white moire slippers. Her large hat was of white moire banded with chiffon velvet, and she carried a shower bouquet of pale pink rosebuds and lily of the valley.

Miss Madeline McNeil, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a frock of orchid chiffon trimmed with satin ribbon of the same shade, with a large moire hat to match. She also wore a string of crystals, a gift from the groom, and carried a sheaf of yellow rosebuds and fern.

The groom was supported by Dr.

FOLLOWED PLOW AS YOUNG GIRL

Ontario Centenarian Recalls Early Days of Hard Work; Deplores Modern Dress

Aurora, Ont., Sept. 24.—Born in 1829, Mrs. Jane Chapelle celebrated her 102nd birthday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Emily Lawson, Armitage, near Aurora. Beside her when the 102 candles were lighted were her three living sisters, Mrs. Arsh Ann Woolven, eighty-four; Mrs. Carolina Moody, eighty-nine; Mrs. Lawson, seventy-nine, and one of her two living brothers, Albert McMain, seventy-two.

As a girl she recalls following the plow for many long hours, and she says in those dim days of the past, a hard day's work of twelve hours was regarded with no more disdain by women folk than washing the dishes to-day. Mrs. Chapelle's husband predeceased her thirty-eight years ago. They lived together forty-four years. The most of her years were spent in the village of Creemore, where she resided for sixty-five years. The rest of her 102 years were spent almost entirely in King township.

Mrs. Chapelle has no quarrel with the younger generations. She frankly deplores, however, the dress of the girls who want as many clothes for bed as the average girl wears to-day," she said naively. "You can't blame the men folk for being bold these days with the way the girls dress," she declared. "If I was a girl I would not want to dress like that."

"Nothing looks nicer than bobbed hair," she said, when this modern trend came up for discussion. "The only time I ever went out with bare arms was to work in the fields and then I had sleeves to the elbow."

Mrs. Chapelle visited Toronto for the first time in 1889. Although she has lived for a century within 100 miles of the city she had never been in one of Toronto's big departmental stores until almost her 100th birthday. She has, however, visited the exhibition on many occasions, the last being about ten years ago.

MARRIED IN GREAT HASTE

The Pas, Man., Sept. 24.—Two couples were married in four minutes this week at Mile 214 on the Hudson Bay Railway. Archdeacon Farley of the Church of England performed the ceremony which looks like a world's record for rapidity of nuptials.

He was passing through on a freight train and had to do the job while the train was stopped, otherwise the couple might have had to wait for three months until another clergyman happened along the line.

ST. Andrew's W.M.S. Hear Reports Of General Council

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church resumed their regular monthly meetings Monday afternoon. Associated with them were members of sister societies, making a large attendance. Reports of the general council meeting at Winnipeg in June were brought by the delegates from Victoria Presbyterian, Mrs. S. Lundie of Sooke and Mrs. John Dempsey.

A message of encouragement was given by both speakers, loyalty and optimism being the keywords. They had heard mission workers from India, Formosa and Manchuria, where fields are large, but year by year the waste places become less, from other overseas stations, South China, Japan and British Guiana, reports of secretaries were equally interesting. There would be a long list if all the faithful workers could be named, and with them the native helpers who also merit the "well done."

Work at home is being carried on with zeal and earnestness. Field workers in sparsely settled regions among the new settlers, many of whom know only foreign language, hospitals, school homes, Indian schools, Oriental in Canada, all have a place in the molding of character and in training for citizenship.

The delegates spoke also of the social side of the conference, and visits to places of historic interest. Both expressed thanks to the Presbytery for the privilege they had enjoyed in attending the annual meeting of the council. The president, Mrs. R. A. Brown, voiced the thanks of the audience for the inspiring addresses.

A moment of silence, with bowed heads was a tribute to the memory of the late Dr. Caroline Macdonald of Sooke, Japan, whose name is known the world over, and as a mark of sympathy with Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Inkster of Toronto in the death of their daughter, Elizabeth, who is remembered as a little girl during her father's pastorate in the First Presbyterian Church.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all present at the close of the session.

PRIZES GIVEN AT ESQUIMALT

An interesting ceremony was held at the Esquimalt High School yesterday afternoon, when for the first time the high school and public school opening exercises and prize-giving ceremonies were held jointly. Among those who attended and presented awards were Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education; Alexander Lockie, chairman of the Esquimalt School Board; Mrs. W. Cave, representing the Esquimalt Women's Institute; Mrs. R. H. Fooley and Mrs. Sarah King.

One of the features of the public school ceremony was the presentation of the Esquimalt Women's Institute's gold medal to Phyllis Hadfield, who led her class in the entrance examinations. Miss Hadfield also received a school board prize for proficiency and highest marks in arithmetic, grammar and geography and an honor roll for proficiency. Other school board prizes were awarded as follows:

Second in proficiency and highest marks in dictation, spelling and Canadian history, Ralph Hennessy; highest mark in Canadian history, Betsy McCallum; highest mark in drawing, Isabella Ord; highest mark in composition, Lorna Harrop.

In addition, the public school pupils received their entrance certificates, first aid certificates and honor rolls for department and regularity and punctuality.

YOUR BABY and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER

THIS HUSKY INFANT DEMANDS NOURISHMENT

When the new baby arrives, the mother is primed, so she thinks, with all the information she needs. But babies have a way of upsetting all preconceived ideas, and taxing the ingenuity and knowledge of mothers, grandparents and relatives.

Mrs. N. E. W. unburdens her problems: "I am a young mother and all my relatives seem to think I need a lot of advice regarding my month old baby. I am told I do not feed him often enough, do not dress him warm enough, and so on, so I am putting my problem up to you."

CRIES AT NIGHT

"My baby, who weighed seven pounds and seven ounces at birth, now at one month weighs nine pounds and nine ounces. He is breast-fed on a four-hour schedule, and I gave him one bottle feeding, usually at 6 o'clock. He sleeps all day outdoors and has to be awakened for every feeding. But not at night. He is always awake about an hour before his 2 a.m. feeding, and for the past week he has cried hard after his 6 p.m. one. He cries steadily for two or three hours, no matter what we do for him. I tried to give him a bottle feeding instead of the breast, but he cries just as hard. The bottle feeding consists of two ounces of boiled water, two ounces of whole milk and one teaspoon of corn syrup. They gave me this formula at the hospital. Would any other type of milk do as well? When shall I start orange juice? He has not worn a band since the navel healed. Do I have to put one on him when winter comes? I shall certainly appreciate an answer to this letter."

COMPLEMENTARY FEEDING IN ORDER

Babies often sleep all day, having their wakeful periods at hours when few parents can wholeheartedly enjoy them. And the 6 o'clock feeding may be a scandalous waste of the day, so a complementary feeding is in order. Your formula was an excellent one: I suggest that you nurse the boy as usual, then offer this complementary bottle, let him take what he wants of it. If he is filled up, he will take very little, but if he is hungry, he will devour it all. Then, even if he does not go to sleep immediately, having slept 2 a.m. he should be happy and contented until he does drop off.

If he awakens at 1 o'clock every night, nurse him. Why fuss with a hungry baby in the middle of the night when his feeding is already three hours away? The chances are that if he is satisfied at 6 p.m. he will sleep until 2 a.m. without a murmur.

You do not need the bands at all if baby has some small bit of wool in his shirt. Orange juice is begun the second month, also cod liver oil. We offer a leaflet on early feeding which you may have if you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for "Feeding From Two to Twelve Months."

Grade A pasteurized milk is considered as good as any other for infant feeding, provided the milk is boiled. Three minutes of boiling renders the milk safe from any lurking bacteria, and more easily digested than the average raw milk.

Sanitary Risk

in carelessly-made substitutes for Kotex

SAFETY should be your first concern in sanitary protection. Health safety. The kind of safety you are certain of in Kotex, the pad that is used in leading hospitals.

But how about those nameless substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? What assurance have you of their sanitary safety? Who made them? Where? How? Are you sure you'd use them, if you knew their origin?

There's one certain way of avoiding risk. Ask for Kotex. Genuine Kotex. It's immaculately clean—made by wonderful, patented machines from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital cleanliness. Machine packed and hygienically sealed in dust-proof packages.

Synod Would Admit Women To Councils

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Principle of admission of women to those councils of the church to which laymen are admitted and upon equal terms was yesterday approved by the general synod of the Church of England in Canada. Legislation to admit women to such sessions, however, has to be passed by the other synods of the church, according to a qualifying clause. Until this is done, the resolution of approval, unanimously passed, will be merely an expression of sentiment.

TOP WEIGHT BEATS MATE

Holder of Three-year-old Championship Finishes Third at Havre De Grace

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 24.—To the many upsets of the 1931 racing season can be added an unexpected defeat for Mate, A. C. Bostwick's speedy colt, which has a half interest with Twenty Grand in the three-year-old championship through two triumphs over his co-champion.

Mate was expected to have a romp in the $20,000 Potomac Handicap yesterday but the task of packing 127 pounds over the mile and 1-16 route against a pair of fast and lightly-laden fillies was a bit too much. An odds-on favorite, Mate finished third behind Preston M. Burch's Tamour and S. W. Labot's Tred Avon, carrying only 110 pounds, who topped the distance in 1:45 1-5, less than one second slower than the track record. Tred Avon with only a 107-pound load, was a length behind the other and only a nose ahead of Mate.

Billy Burke And Von Elm Win Over Jones and Ouimet

West Orange, N.J., Sept. 24.—Bobby Jones and his amateur championship successor, Francis Ouimet, absorbed a drubbing yesterday in a thirty-six-hole charity exhibition golf match with Billy Burke, U.S. open champion, and George Von Elm.

Burke and Von Elm, who have proved themselves just about the toughest pair of shotmakers on the links this season, played brilliant golf to whip the Jones-Ouimet combination, 5 up, over the first eighteen holes, then double their margin in the second round.

It was the first time Jones, since his retirement as the undisputed king of all the golfing world, had played two of his successors, Burke and Ouimet, in the same match.

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Following an early morning brawl opposite a bar-cue on the Dundas highway to-day, in which one man was beaten by two others, county police held two men, one of whom is Albert "Franchy" Belanger, former flyweight champion of the world, and until recently Canadian flyweight champion.

The name of Belanger's companion was withheld.

MRS. ARMSTRONG WILL COMPETE

Well-known Victoria Golfer Among Entrants in Canadian Open at Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 24.—With a strong international field competing, the Canadian women's open golf tournament this year promises to be one of the outstanding events of the Canadian golf calendar.

Prominent among the entrants who will tee up for the eighteen-hole qualifying round over the Rosedale course here Monday are Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, now defending her title as women's open champion of the United States; Miss Enid Wilson, British women's open champion, and Miss Maureen Orcutt, White Beaches Golf Club, New Jersey, the present Canadian titleholder.

LARGE ENTRY LIST

A total of ninety-four players from the United States and Canada have already entered for the tournament. Post entries are expected to swell the

Freddie Steele Wins Over Evans

Seattle, Sept. 24.—"Cowboy" Sammy Evans, fighting like he was on a horse, lost every round and the decision to Freddie Steele, Tacoma welterweight, in a six-round boxing bout yesterday evening.

Steele dropped Evans for a six-count in the third but was unable to put over the finishing punch, largely because of a bad cut over his left eye that hindered his vision.

The "cowboy" pranced and jumped around the ring, swinging lefts and rights from every angle but hit the only blow of any consequence, a right smack that opened the cut over Steele's eye. Evans's jumping tactics ruined his aim and made Freddie miss numerous swings.

Pickard And Young Stoddard Form Fine Pole-vaulting Duo

Veteran Hamilton Star and Bronzed Schoolboy From Goderich Appear Strongest Point-scoring Pair of Jumping Set; Pickard Rates as One of the Greatest in the World; Len Hutton, Montreal, and Ollie Holland and Chester Smith, Two Youngsters, Head Broad Jumpers

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Men, who pole vault 14 feet, broad jump 25 feet 6 inches and high jump 6 feet 6 inches, are going to be champions at the Los Angeles Olympic Games next year. Men, who leap lesser distances, not so far or so high, may provide stern competition; they may even place high and win points. But the Olympic champions will have to be breaking or crowding world records.

Canada has two athletes who pole vault 13 feet, two or three broad jumpers who might come close to 24 feet on a good day and one high jumper who clears better than 6 feet consistently. Canada's jumpers may win points at the California championships, but they will hardly cause any stunning upsets by winning.

United States has never failed to turn loose a couple of jumping geniuses around Olympic time, just the same as the British Empire has always produced up with a surprising set of world-beating runners. Canada has helped the Empire with her sprinters, but so far has shown no disposition to tip America from its pedestal atop the field. And Canadian pole vaulters are better than England, herself, produces, and better than Australia or Scotland or Ireland or South Africa may be expected to show.

Less than a year before the games, the Dominion's pole vaulters seem to possess more point-scoring power than any other jumping set. Vic Pickard, Hamilton, far superior to any vaulters produced in this country, has been joined by a bronzed young schoolboy and the pair will carry a double threat to Los Angeles if both retain the form they have shown this season. The scholar is Bob Stoddard, Goderich, Ont.

ONE OF BEST IN WORLD

Pickard, lone vaulter on the Canadian squad at Amsterdam in 1928, took fourth place in his event. He was the only member of the field to place. Pickard has cleared 13 feet 6 inches and a little better. At his best he is one of the greatest pole vaulters in the world—but not quite the greatest.

Performing for his coach, Capt. J. R. Cornelius, recently at Hamilton, Stoddard went over 13 feet—the first time he had jumped into the magic circle. He has not done it in competition yet, but the black-haired youth, who only now is getting proper coaching, looms as a real rival for Pickard and a possible Olympic teammate. At the Canadian championships this month, Stoddard's best jump was 12 feet 5 1/2 inches. Under far from perfect conditions, he missed at the 13-foot mark.

A 13-foot hop at Amsterdam would have won third place; Pickard was three-quarters of an inch under. But anything less than that is not likely to gain a high place next year.

HUTTON IS BEST

Len Hutton, Montreal, ranks as the best broad jumper in Canada, but his Olympic prospects are no brighter than those of Ollie Holland, the colored schoolboy of Hamilton; Gordon Smallcombe of Toronto; and slim, blonde Chester Smith, also of Toronto. Hutton has the edge because of his victory in the British Empire Games last year. Smith, Smallcombe and Holland have won Canadian titles, Holland early this month at Winnipeg.

Not one of the quartet has leaped 24 feet and unless one of them manages this distance in the Olympic trials it is doubtful if a broad jumper will be included in the Canadian team. Holland, only eighteen years old, may be the lad to turn the trick. Capt. Cornelius, who coached the 1924 and 1928 international teams, believes the dusky youth the best prospect in the Dominion—and the wily Scot is Holland's coach.

Another schoolboy has placed himself far in front of the high jumping brigade and the chances that Jack Portland, tall limer and eighth-year student at the University, where he will develop into as good a performer as Alex. Monroe are good. Portland, whose home is in Collingwood, Ont., won his second Canadian championship this month at Winnipeg.

While the shipbuilding town's prodigy is able to clear 6 feet and a little more, he has not yet established himself as the equal of Monroe, the Toronto star, who made a place on the 1928 team. Monroe was good for 6 feet 3 inches and failed to place at Amsterdam only because officials disqualified him for "diving."

OUR HURDLERS

Arthur Ravendale, Cobourg, Ont., has encountered no threat to his high hurdling supremacy in Canada, but Olympic committee members, even if they give the smooth-styled easterner a place, will not expect him to triumph over the best United States hurdlers. Greatly improved since he entered Marquette University, where he received high-class coaching, Ravendale still is not a dangerous rival to the outstanding American 120-yard men.

In the opinion of Capt. Cornelius, Ravendale would be wise to concentrate on the 440-yard hurdles for the Olympic trials. The Hamilton mentor believes the Cobourg lad has the speed necessary for the grinding quarter and thinks his long legs would give him an advantage over the not-too-packed field in that event.

As it is Tom Coulter, ex-Winnipeg boy, who runs during school sessions for Carnegie Tech. at Pittsburgh, and for Montreal A.A.A. in the summer season, appears to be the best 440-yard hurdle man. Coulter scored some sensational victories in intercollegiate competition and will try for a place on the Canadian team.

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.—Assurance that India, winner of the world field hockey champions at the 1928 Olympic games, will send a team to the tenth Olympiad here next summer, was received by the Los Angeles organizing committee yesterday.

"It won't hurt a bit"

"Now, don't worry, this won't hurt a bit. You'll feel a hundred percent better when I'm through. You look terrible with a week's growth of stubble on your face and I'm not going to put off shaving you a single day longer. * * * No I won't wait. You're going to have some visitors today and you look like the wild man from Borneo. Didn't I tell you it won't hurt? I've got a new Gillette blade in the razor. One of the doctors told me it's the finest blade he ever used. Come on, now, let's go, we've got to get those whiskers off."

Nurse is right, absolutely right. The patient is due for a pleasant surprise. The new Gillette blade is amazingly keen and smooth. It's made to shave tender skin lightly and cleanly without a bit of razor smart or burn. Prove to your complete satisfaction that shaving can be thoroughly comfortable and fairly enjoyable. Buy a package of new Gillette blades on our money-back guarantee and try them. You must be thoroughly satisfied, or return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

SPORTS

BACK AGAIN

Glenna Collett, now Mrs. Edwin Vare, the Bobby Jones of women's golf in the United States, a likely starter in the Canadian women's open championship, is a familiar figure to golf enthusiasts in the Dominion, where she has competed many times in tournament play. She is without a doubt the second greatest woman player in the world during the past decade which Paul Gallico, New York writer, fondly calls the golden age of sport. Miss Collett was five times winner of the United States championship. Miss Joyce Wethered, the British woman and assuredly greatest of them all, has one less victory in the British championship, but defeated Miss Collett three and one in 1929. If Miss Collett starts in the Canadian open she may stack up against Miss Enid Wilson, the twenty-one-year-old British sensation. The match would be worth going miles to see.

"Y" Leaders Prepare For Big Conference

In preparation for the international gymnast leaders conference to be held in Seattle on November 6, 7 and 8, members of the Y.M.C.A. leaders corps will hold a special meeting of the association to-morrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Norm Collins, president of the group, has requested all members to attend since he intends to draw up plans for the local association's activities at the big gathering.

SPARKS SHINES IN CRICKET WIN

Leads Batters and Bowlers as Penderay's XI Defeats Peberdy's Team

The bats of F. A. Sparks, Allwood and Griffin did great service yesterday as Penderay's eleven knocked out an easy victory over Peberdy's team in the friendly cricket match played at Beacon Hill. The former won by 107 runs. Sparks led the batsmen with a score of 52, after which he retired. Allwood and Griffin each knocked out 46, the latter still holding his bat when the game was declared.

Sparks also shone in the bowling lists, taking eight wickets for 32 runs in eleven overs.

Peberdy was the leading hitter for his team, scoring 23. Hanson, who was next with 11, was the best bowler on the eleven, taking three wickets for 23 runs in seven overs.

Watching the Majors

Babe Ruth alone of the Big Six had an opportunity yesterday to fatten his average, but could do no better than one hit in three attempts and his average remained stationary at .372. The Yankee slugger now is assured of second place in the final standing even if he has a serious slump in the few remaining games.

Al Simmons of the Athletics, who has hit safely in twelve straight games, and boosted his average to .391, is a cinch to lead the American League for the second straight year.

For the first time in several months no home runs were hit yesterday, when only three games were scheduled.

Max Baer Makes Punching Bag Of L.A. Heavyweight

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 24.—Big Max Baer, Oakland, the former Livermore butcher boy, started making a punching bag out of Jack Van Noy, Los Angeles heavyweight, in the eighth round of their ten-round bout here yesterday evening, so Referee Toby Irwin stopped the battle to save Van Noy from further punishment.

Making his first appearance since he lost a twenty-round decision to Paulino Uzcudun in Reno, July 4, Baer alternately loafed or fought furiously as the occasion demanded.

Van Noy weighed 197 1/2 pounds, Oakland auditorium was crowded nearly to capacity with approximately $11,000 in the house.

Daily Health Service

NEARLY ALL EAT TOO MUCH

Six to Ten Glasses of Water a Day Are Needed by Average Human
By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

The esthetics of eating have not yet been developed in our rushing civilization. A quiet, clean dining-room, free from orchestral din and dancing is more conducive to good digestion than can easily be estimated.

Enough food should be eaten to provide energy for the daily work, but it is safe to say that all of us eat too much. A continuous and steady gain in weight is not advisable after middle age. For evidence indicates that obesity is associated with conditions which shorten life. Every man ought to find out what his optimum weight is for health, and control his diet to the point at which such may be maintained.

A proper diet contains suitable quantities of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, mineral salts and the essential vitamins. If the diet contains sufficient protein, meat, eggs and fish to amount to twenty-five grams or two ounces per day of actual protein, the proportion will be suitable. For palatability, most protein is superior to vegetable protein. Two ounces of meat provide ten grams of protein, or one-seventh of the average daily intake. Butter provides no protein, but is almost wholly fat.

The human body needs a lot of water to keep itself in suitable condition as 65 per cent of the human body is composed of this fluid. Most experts suggest somewhere between six to ten glasses of water a day—modifications of ordinary water may be more pleasant to take.

The best scientific evidence indicates that taken in moderation, tea and coffee are not harmful. It is inadvisable when greatly fatigued to attempt to relieve this feeling by drinking tea or coffee. This is like whipping a tired horse. The caffeine does not relieve the fatigue, but merely gives stimulus sufficient to overcome it temporarily, placing, however, an added burden on the tissues. Among the peculiar follies of the physical culture movement none is so preposterous as the notion that breathing of one type or another is important in the causing of disease or the cure for various complaints. Breathing is not automatically regulated by the human body to the same extent as the beating of the heart may be. The latter is almost wholly an automatic function.

Breathing, up to a large extent, can be controlled. You can breathe as deeply or as fast as you wish, but if you overestimate yourself in exercising, the lungs will take in as much air as they can equal the increased demand. When a person inhales air through the nose, dust and dirt are removed high up in the breathing tract and the air is warmed. Breathing through the mouth does not supply these safeguards.

All systems of breathing such as the "vital" breathing, abdominal breathing, rhythmic deep breathing and other schemes are irrational. No-body ought to live for his lungs alone. It is possible through breathing too rapidly to stop the respiration and it is possible by breathing in too shallow a manner to produce changes in the blood that are not altogether healthful.

Enough exercise should be taken and ordinary breathing ought to be done sufficiently to provide for the lungs a regular amount of ventilation and development.

The Kilkenny cats were two pug-nacious felines which, according to Irish tradition, fought until there was nothing left of them but their tails. To fight like two Kilkenny cats, is to fight or wrangle until both sides have lost everything.

VANCOUVER-TO-CHINA FLIGHT BEING PLANNED

Aviator, Here With Backer To-day, Says He Will Leave on Oct. 2

Plans for a transpacific flight, from Vancouver to China, were revealed by W. H. Cross, backer of the attempt, now in Victoria attempting to raise funds to send off his aviator on October 2. Announcement that the attempt would be made, providing sufficient capital was forthcoming, was made at the Rotary Club luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-day.

During the last few months the aviator he is backing has been preparing for the flight. Speaking to the club to-day Mr. Cross said it was his aim to make the flight to open up the Chinese market for Canadian-made goods. He stated that the Lindberghs, presumably on a holiday and "good-will" trip to the Orient had placed contracts worth $25,000,000 in the Orient for U.S. goods.

Major Cross had raised $20,000 for the flight, but more would be required before he could take off, he told the gathering.

Major Cross stated he had been stationed in Mongolia for many years but was severing connections with that country owing to the influence of Soviet Russia. He told of the wealth there and the manner in which the Soviets were exploiting its gold-bearing ore properties.

The proposed flight would appeal to the Chinese people and would open up for Canada a fine market in a rich country, he declared. He sketched the possibilities of extending trade in that country and stated the Chinese would in no way impede this extension.

The flight would be a by-law passed in the Chinese market. Major Cross continued, stating that the plane, "The Canadian Trader" was scheduled to leave for the Mainland airport early next month.

SEE PERIL TO MINORS FROM GAME LICENSE

David Marshall's Death While Hunting Was Accident, Coroner's Jury Finds

Jurors Advise Game Board Against Issuance of Licenses to Minors

Special To The Times

Cumberland, Sept. 24.—A coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the death of David Marshall last Sunday from gunshot wounds, brought in a verdict of accidental death and added as a rider: "It is unsafe for minors to be holders of game licenses under any circumstances."

The inquest was held by Dr. J. McKee of Courtenay, coroner. Witnesses stated that young Marshall was seventeen years of age and when hunting in the Bloedel slaying on Sunday he had become separated from three companions. His dead body was found on Tuesday.

Provincial police reconstructed the accident to show the single barreled shotgun had probably discharged when the young man was leaning on it with his hands crossed over the muzzle. The pellets had passed through the palm of the left hand, through the chest, and into the right side, and many had grazed the right breast and inflicted wounds in the right side of the neck and jaw.

Examination of the gun showed, according to police officers, that when the hammer was cocked it would discharge at the slightest jar on a solid surface.

The coroner quoted section 29 of the Game Act as stating that no license shall be issued to a person under eighteen years of age except at the written request of parent or guardian and that such a person, when carrying firearms, shall always be accompanied by a holder of an adult license. Every license issued to a minor is required under this clause to be endorsed to this effect. The license carried by the deceased was produced in court and held no such endorsement.

The Native Daughters of B.C. Post No. 3 met at the New Thought Hall on Wednesday evening, with the chief factor, Mrs. J. C. Newbury, presiding. An installation ceremony was performed, when Mrs. H. Dalziel and Miss M. Gillies were made treasurer and secretary respectively, in place of Mrs. J. King and Mrs. F. Pomeroy, who have resigned from the offices owing to illness. Preliminary arrangements were started for a Halloween bridge party to be held on the evening of October 28. The committee in charge of the affair will be Mrs. T. P. Waters, Mrs. H. A. Beckwith, Miss L. Smithurst and Miss A. Mason. Mrs. J. C. Newbury and Mrs. T. Hubbard kindly offered to donate the prizes. At the next meeting of the post to be held on October 14, a jam shower will be held in aid of the Friendly Help Society, and all members are requested to bring their pot of jam with them to the next meeting. The business of the evening was followed by a competition, the prizes for which were won by Miss Lillian Smithurst and Mrs. T. Hubbard, after which delicious refreshments were served, which were much enjoyed by all. The hostesses for the evening were, Mrs. J. Webb, Mrs. J. C. Newbury, Mrs. R. Grant and Miss A. Chow.

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—Civic representatives estimated Wednesday in conference with Hon. R. W. Bruhn, provincial Minister of Public Works, that the city's unemployment relief works programme will cost about $2,500,000. This amount will cover street and boulevard improvements as well as airport, school board and parks board work.

'Yea' and 'Nay' He Ponders, But Not Any More

Antiquated Language to Disappear From City's Referendum By-law

"Oh yes," shouted City Clerk Frank Hunter, perusing one of the city's ancient by-laws the other day.

Fifty assistants, three stenographers and Mayor's secretary, John Baxter rushed to help him and were disappointed when they discovered the only trouble was that the clerk had found another one of those "out-of-dateisms" in the by-law.

And that is why Mr. Hunter secured permission from the City Council this week to redraft a by-law passed in 1902, under which the council is allowed to hold a referendum on its own initiative.

Thirty years ago when the city fathers had long beards and drove-old dobbins to meetings they used to say "yea" and "nay" when voting on a measure. Modern days find "yes" and "no" quite good enough, so the old by-law which provides everyone must mark their ballots "yea" and "nay" will undergo a little reconstruction.

ASK PROVISION FOR RELIGIOUS WORK IN CAMPS

Ministers of Works and Finance Interviewed by Inter-denominational Committee

Hon. J. W. Jones Promises Early Statement on Assistance to Be Given Churches

A strong inter-denominational delegation of clergy and social workers this morning was assured by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, that the department would provide every practical facility for conducting religious and social welfare work among men in provincial relief camps this winter.

The minister advised the delegation that the proposed programme of activities would have to be approved by the Department of Finance, and recommended that a small delegation explain the programme and the cost involved to Hon. J. W. Jones.

Mr. Jones was subsequently interviewed by Stanley Brent, Vancouver, and Rev. Dr. George A. Wilson, superintendent of Home Missions for the United Church of Canada, who announced the extent of the support available within twenty-four hours, if possible.

The delegation which interviewed the Minister of Public Works also included Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., United Church; Rev. Father Evans, Roman Catholic; Rev. R. F. Lattrell, Presbyterian; Rev. G. A. Reynolds, Baptist; and Commandant Fullerton, Salvation Army. Mr. Brent, as the representative of mainland church interests and the department, presented the case for the delegation.

UNEMPLOYED TELL OF NEEDS

Relief Fund Officials Are Interviewed by Jobless Requiring Aid

Bedding, clothes, fuel and rent are among the principal needs which must be supplied to unemployed families if unnecessary suffering is to be prevented during the coming winter, according to a representative group of unemployed who are making plans in charge of the Victoria Citizens' Unemployed Fund Headquarters, this morning.

The spokesman for the group expressed thanks for the assistance the committee is rendering, and said unemployed citizens appreciated the generosity of those who have contributed to the fund.

The object of the delegation was to impress upon the committee the particular needs of most families so it would be in possession of the fullest information when making plans for distribution of the fund, it was stated. These representations will be given full consideration, and so far as the fund will permit all cases of need will be attended to, fund officials said.

"Any citizen who has not yet contributed is asked to do so without delay, so that the amount available may reach its peak before the winter plans are formulated. Contributions should be sent to headquarters, View and Broad Streets, telephone G 1725, or to the city treasurer, E. C. Smith, City Hall," he added.

British Women's Golf Champ Defeats Marjorie Kerr 4 and 3 in National Play

Mrs. Vare, Helen Hicks and Virginia Van Wile Other Winners; Good Golf Seen

Canadian Press

Buffalo Country Club, Williams, N.Y., Sept. 24.—The finalists in last year's title event, the British champion and the New York state titleholder, advanced to the semi-final round in the United States women's golf championship to-day.

Mrs. Glenn Collett Vare, Philadelphia, the champion, defeated Mrs. Leo Federman, New York City, 5 and 4; Virginia Van Wile, Chicago, last year's runner-up, subdued Maureen O'Connell, Englewood, N.J., 2 and 1; End Wilson, British titleholder, conquered Marjorie Kerr, also of England, 4 and 3; Helen Hicks, Hewlett, Long Island, won over Mrs. Leona Pressler, San Gabriel, Cal., 1929 finalist, 4 and 3.

The Vare-Van Wile match was the feature of the day's play. Both were out in 41, women's par, for the first nine holes, to be all even. Miss Van Wile won the twelfth and seventeenth holes to capture the match, the other holes on the inward route being halved as the result of remarkable approaching and putting.

MRS. VARE WINS EASILY

Mrs. Vare had no trouble in disposing of Mrs. Federman, who trailed by six holes at the turn. Mrs. Vare was out in 39, two under par.

Miss Wilson scored an equally easy victory over her countrywoman and traveling companion. She stood 4 up at the turn and contained herself with keeping Miss Kerr at that distance for the rest of the way.

Miss Hicks, who was out in 40, also had a margin of four holes on her opponent, Mrs. Pressler, at the halfway mark. The hard-hitting Long Island girl took things easy after that and was never in danger.

FRENCH SCORES TREE SLAUGHTER

Spoilation of Cameron Lake Grove Stirs Naturalist at Empress Hotel

Unnecessary slaughter of the big trees along the Island Highway in the noted grove through which the road runs just beyond Cameron Lake, was reported at the Empress Hotel to-day by Dr. Cecil French, on his return from Up-Island. Dr. French has been prominent for some time on this island as a public-spirited naturalist.

"It was the understanding of the people that those great trees along the road were to be preserved, but I find the road gangs of the Department of Public Works in action up there hewing them down," said Dr. French.

Those trees belong to the people and were to have been preserved for the people. They can never be replaced once they are cut down. It is a criminal act that is being perpetrated there."

Dr. French at once placed the spoilation of the tract before Frank Barnum, the Montrealer, internationally known conservationist, who is at present in Victoria.

Mr. Barnum said he was starting machinery in motion at once to bring about a halt in the destruction of the big trees.

Who's Who At Hotels

Paul Doyle, prominent in hotel circles in Sacramento, Cal., has arrived here to take over the Oak Bay Hotel, which for years, under the late John Virtue, was one of the outstanding small hostels of the west.

Mr. Doyle said he was bringing the standard of service at the hotel up to modern requirements and aimed at preserving the house's high reputation.

Lester Wolfenden, son of a former Victoria business man, Jack Wolfenden, who now runs the Governor Hotel at San Francisco, has arrived at the Dominion Hotel here on his vacation.

"I was born in Victoria, left here as a boy and am now back as a man," said Mr. Wolfenden. "The old town looks good to see again."

A welcome home party is being staged for him by some of his friends of school-days, who, he pointed out, are now grown-up.

Col. Villiers, head of the Canadian Collieries, arrived in Victoria to-day from Vancouver and is spending a short time at the Empress Hotel before going up the Island to his home at Cumberland.

Ethel Luenning, the Canadian soprano, known to Victorians a few years ago as Miss Ethel Codd, arrived from New York to-day at the Empress, accompanied by her husband, Otto Luenning, the noted opera composer. She will give her recital here at the Shrine Temple Saturday night.

Herr Luenning said they intend to stay in Victoria for some time as he intends to complete here the writing of his new opera, "Evangeline."

Miss Ruth Byron and Miss M. W. Webb of the Chateau Lake Louise have arrived at the Empress for a vacation on the Coast now that the travel season in the mountains is over for the year.

Among the Victorians here today are: Dr. W. A. Dobson, Rowe Holland, J. S. C. Moffitt, J. E. Thompson, Charles Wilkinson, H. T. Frederickson, W. R. S. Fraser, R. F. Brophy, Lorne Nash, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ashton, Albert Kerr, C. Jones, H. R. Lumby, Mr. and Mrs. T. Stokell, B. C. Hewitson, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Billings.

From farther east are: L. J. Harvey of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. M. Kolb of Philadelphia, R. F. Muirhead and J. J. Cregan of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bacon are up here from San Francisco on a honeymoon.

Mayor To Act On Teachers' Salary Body

Mayor Anson of Victoria, Councilor Lambert of Burnaby and City Clerk Gordon of Kelowna will represent the Union of B.C. Municipalities on the committee for investigation of the scale of teachers' salaries in the province, Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, announced.

In addition to these three, the B.C. Teachers' Association will choose three delegates, three more will be selected by the government from business circles and the B.C. Teachers' Federation will supply the remaining nine.

It would put into circulation many millions of dollars that would be economically useful and would fulfill a need that is daily becoming more acute. It would also absorb a large number of men at present unemployed," he declared.

A proposal to form instruction classes for unemployed boys and girls over school age in subjects not covered by the regular night school course was made by Trustee J. S. McMillan at the meeting of the School Board yesterday evening.

He said this would be one way of aiding young persons now in need to gain knowledge which might benefit them immediately in relieving their circumstances.

A motion by Trustee McMillan that a questionnaire be sent out to ascertain if classes could be formed was unanimously endorsed.

Geneva, Sept. 24.—The United States Government's note announcing it would throw its weight behind the movement to restore peace between Japan and China in Manchuria was received by the Council of the League of Nations to-day.

It was interpreted in league quarters as meaning the United States is leaving the door open to possible association with the council or will co-operate in any other procedure to solve the dispute.

Receipts of this report was regarded in informed quarters at Geneva as strengthening a belief that the Japanese Government had decided to yield to demands for the withdrawal of troops in Manchuria and would accept a proposal for an inquiry by a mixed commission.

Fractional Advances In Winnipeg Wheat Pit Late Hedging Tendency

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 24.—Wheat continued to hold a fractional edge in light trading on the grain exchange here today. Values at the close were 1/2 cent to 1/4 cent higher than Wednesday's closing figures.

October closed at 54 1/2, up 1/4, an advance of 1/2 cent, while December and May at 55 1/2 to 56 and 55 respectively advanced 1/2 cent.

The market opened sharply higher in all months and offerings were fairly limited, but in the closing hour there was less outside interest shown, and

WINNIPEG
(By Logan & Bryan)
Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Wheat was quite strong during first period when prices advanced from 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents above the close last night, but the upturn was not held, practically all the earlier gains being lost in the later trading, the decline being led by Chicago, where prices at the noon hour were 1/2 to 1/4 below the previous close. The New York stock market was also decidedly weak, and this had some effect on commodities.

The local wheat market was fairly active at the start when there was some buying by export and seaboard houses, while commission houses were also supporting the market based on the firmness in Liverpool. This demand became filled up after the first half hour, and the market turned quiet, but during the session there was fair buying on the scale down that was credited to New York interests and was being done on the further decline in Canadian and British currency.

Sales were light, but it is evident that this market has been somewhat overbought the past two or three days, and longs were liquidating on the decline in Chicago and the drastic break in stocks.

There was very little doing in the cash market, the demand being quite light with shippers generally remaining out of the market while exchange is so unsettled. Offerings were pressing to any extent and spreads were mostly unchanged except six wheat, which was half cent off, while the durum was one cent off. There was a fair export business in Manitoba overnight, but the business was all worked from seaboard. At the close of the grain market trading was quoted at 3.97, but there was nothing definite on the Canadian dollar.

Coarse grains—These markets continue very quiet with nothing of importance going on, the bulk of the business being spreading. There were no export sales reported, while the domestic demand is very limited.

Oats closed 1/2 to 1/4 lower, barley 1/4 to 1/2 lower, and rye 1/4 to 1/2 off. Flax—Dull and featureless. No interest shown with a little scattered liquidation in evidence. Closing prices 1/4 to 1 cent lower.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 lower, based on Winnipeg.

CHICAGO
(By Logan & Bryan)
Chicago, Sept. 24.—After showing a strong tone early, wheat turned weak, following the decline in stocks. General news showed little support for the general situation, but the handling of the unmeted security market was too much for the bulls. As a matter of fact there was constructive news available if the market had been right for its acceptance. Sanford Evans of Winnipeg estimates wheat stocks in all positions in Canada except on the farms and in transit at 147,000,000 bu. as of September 18 at 45,000,000 bu. 11,331,000 bushels same time last year.

Liverpool closed 3/4 to 1/2 higher than yesterday's closing, and from this country according to Bradstreet, 7,530,000 bushels. Argentine shipments estimated at 1,323,000 bushels. Milling demand is improving and country sales are small, with cash wheat holding relatively firm. On its merits believe wheat good for the long pull.

Corn: Reacted from an early rally following the dip in wheat, and it was also affected by the decline in stocks. Cash demand was fair, basis steady with sales 35,000 bushels. No corn was reported on delivery. Open interest in September delivery, December futures and at close yesterday was 1,821,000 bushels.

Showery weather prevails over most of the belt. The prospects for any big movement of corn is not at all bright, although some corn may be headed here for September delivery. December runs into fair support on the seaboard, and think it is reasonable price at this time.

Rye: Sold off with wheat and other grains, but showed no special pressure. Statistical position strong.

Heart of Liane

by MABEL MCCELLIOTT

Liane followed her into a lilac-draped cubicle. With infinite care she was helped off with her smart smoke-colored coat. Miss Lilly, a tall, red-haired girl with a matchless Irish complexion, appeared.

"Just one minute, Miss Barrett. Ma'mselle Denise is putting in the last stitch."

Liane scarcely heard what she said as she slipped out of her expensive frock and stood there in the wisps of delicate French lingerie Mrs. Cleopatra had insisted on buying for her. As in a dream she watched the voluble Frenchwoman enter carrying the pile of creamy velvet over her arm. She stood in a small dais, and permitted them to drape her with the gown. Her mind was a whirl of confused thoughts. Why had she agreed to lunch with Van Robard? She felt guilty about it, about the meeting itself which certainly she had not planned. The very fact that Clive was more significant.

"Miss Barrett is lovely!" muttered Mademoiselle, falling back a few steps and clasping her hands.

Liane glanced dreamily at herself in the long mirror. Startled, she beheld her own image. She stared at herself as if, indeed, it were a stranger she beheld.

The dress was exquisite. There was at least no doubt about that. It followed the style of a more romantic period. The fitted bodice, long tight sleeves, the graceful flow of the long full skirt suited her exactly. Above the adroitly fitting bodice her throat and shoulders were exquisite. Miss Lilly, watching her, thought there was something vaguely Florentine about the girl.

"She thought, 'If all our brides looked like this I shouldn't mind raving about them.'"

She thought, "If all our brides looked like this I shouldn't mind raving about them." She thought, "If all our brides looked like this I shouldn't mind raving about them." She thought, "If all our brides looked like this I shouldn't mind raving about them."

Carefully they helped Liane out of the gown. Miss Lilly buttoned her into the smoke-colored frock.

"They treat me," marveled Liane, "as if I were a princess. She smiled at them, told them the dress was beautiful. Miss Lilly said, 'I should like to come to your wedding, Miss Barrett.' She always said that to 'her brides' and seldom meant it. This time she meant what she said."

Liane said, "I'll be sure to send you an invitation." Dreamily she smiled at the other girl.

She was not really thinking of them. She was wondering what she would say to Van Robard who waited for her in his long, low car. She was trying on the dress she would wear to her wedding but her love was given to another man.

Over the table in a quiet, secluded little restaurant, Van said, "I told Kelly you would be delayed. He'll pick you up at the Ritz at four."

Troubled, Liane looked across at him. "If anyone should see us here," she murmured, "there'd be gossip. I should hate that for Clive's sake."

"What nonsense! Even Eva would not mind. Why, I'm almost one of the family!"

Liane laughed, suddenly light-hearted and determined to enjoy the interlude. "I suppose you are. I'm foolish to worry."

He covered her hand, with his own brown one.

"You're a darling even if you are foolish," his eyes caressed her. "You're not very polite." She tried to appear dignified.

"Do you want me to be? One is polite only to the people one cares nothing about."

He bent his head to light a cigarette. Covertly she studied his averted face. Always when those dark eyes of his burned deeply into her own she became confused. Now her glance devoured each handsome feature. He lifted his eyes to meet her frank stare.

Robert smiled. "Like me?"

"You know I do," she said very softly.

"Sweet!" He made the word sound like a caress. Under the table she felt one of her small, grey shoes felt imprisoned between his russet boots. She colored.

He laughed at her. "That's an understatement, my dear. He mocked. 'Won't do it again.' He released her small shoe.

The waiter hovered obsequiously over them.

"Here now, you must eat," Van told Liane with a show of authority. "You'll be swooning from starvation."

"She tried to eat but she could not. Food at such a time!"

Abruptly Van turned serious. "You're not really going through with this marriage?" he asked. Liane nodded. "Of course, I am. What on earth did you think?"

He set his jaw. "You're not. I won't have it."

She laughed. She couldn't help it. "You have a nerve."

He shook his head impatiently. "No, I tell you. You mustn't. There's something between us. We've felt it from the first. Both of us. I—well, did you think?"

He set his jaw. "You're not. I won't have it."

She laughed. She couldn't help it. "You have a nerve."

He shook his head impatiently. "No, I tell you. You mustn't. There's something between us. We've felt it from the first. Both of us. I—well, did you think?"

Liane looked down at her plate. Her pulse was pounding, her thoughts racing wildly.

Aloud she said in a suffocated voice, "It's too late. I've given my word."

He exclaimed that. "Rak. You don't love Clive. He's a great chap but you don't. Chuck it all. Come off with me to-day."

With tortured eyes she stared at him. "Oh, I mustn't! It'd be wrong."

She thought of Clive looking at her that morning, saying, "Come to Richmond with me."

"Who, she couldn't be unfair to Clive. It would hurt him too much. But how was she to resist this other, whose very presence had the power to sway her against her better judgment?"

Van set his lips. "Very well. I've been wrong about you from the first. This tore from her an agonized, "Why?"

He said cruelly, "You're after the millionaire baby just as they all say." She stared at him, stabbed to the heart. Pride came to her rescue at last. "It's nice to know what you really think of me." She gathered up her gloves.

"Don't go. You know I didn't really mean it."

She thought, "Oh, if I could only bite him! That would cure every thing!"

CHAPTER XXXII

Kelly was voluble on the return trip. "A thumb tack it was in the tire, Miss," he told Liane. "Looked as if someone had jabbed it in. Funny."

She scarcely listened to the man's talk. Van's words came back to haunt her. What right had he to say such things to her? Not once in the months she had known him had he given her any tangible evidence of his love. Words, words, words, all meaningless! It was to Muriel, the girl of his own world, that his fealty had been pledged. She, Liane, had remained outside the chosen circle, until Clive had raised her up with his honest devotion.

Some men were like that, she decided. You did not value until you were promised to another. She tried to work up a furious anger in her heart against Van. Better a clean rage than this sickly yearning after a man who could be so savagely bitter toward her.

She realized suddenly that she had forgotten to telephone her mother. The whole day had been a muddle. She went straight to Mrs. Cleopatra. "We had a breakdown and Mr. Robard came along. He drove me into town for my appointment. I was just in time."

"How fortunate," Mrs. Cleopatra said warmly. "How is the dress? I am so anxious to see it."

"It's perfect," Liane said honestly. "Scarcely anything was wrong. Oh, the sleeves were not quite tight enough. Miss Lilly says it will be ready next week."

"The notices are ready for the papers—all but the date," Mrs. Cleopatra told her. "Clive said you might decide that while he was away. I was hoping we might make it Christmas Eve. St. Simon's will be lovely then."

Liane thought a little wildly that they might be making arrangements for luncheon or a dinner instead of so important an event as a wedding.

"That would be all right," she said quietly.

The old lady looked at her with calm satisfaction. "The twenty-fourth then," she said. "I think we'll have the church blessed with pine and I want mimosa for the altar vases. It may be hard to get it but I shall try."

"She is enjoying this wedding more than I am," reflected the young girl. Yet she entered into the plans as completely as she could. Anything to still the dull ache in her heart.

"What was the trouble with the car?" the old lady inquired presently. Liane welcomed the diversion.

"Kelly said a thumb tack had worked its way into the rear tire," she explained.

Mrs. Cleopatra sniffed. "How very odd. He was supposed to take all three tires off yesterday and look them over carefully. Two of them are brand new. And you say it happened just a short distance west of the village?"

Liane nodded. The old lady looked annoyed. "I shall have to reprimand Kelly. He must have disregarded my orders about overhauling the car yesterday."

It was on the tip of Liane's tongue to say, "Van took me to luncheon," but she refrained. She scarcely knew why.

"Dinner that night Treasa was unusually gay. Liane had not known she could be so cheerful, so amusing. 'I think I'll push off for Aiken next week,' Treasa said affably over the coffee cups."

Mrs. Cleopatra looked at her benevolently. Evidently Treasa had won her way back into her hostess's affections since the coolness the night of the ball.

"If you must," the older woman said, "but I did hope you might stay for the wedding."

"Oh, is that all settled?" Treasa asked. Her bell-like tones were utterly guileless, but Liane felt a sharpness in the gaze of Treasa turned upon her.

"Christmas Eve it's to be," said the old lady, smiling. "The papers will have it to-morrow. Very quiet, of course. No maids. Liane wanted it that way."

"Ah!" Treasa's monosyllable was noncommittal. "Well then perhaps I'll impose on you for a short while longer."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Shower

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Once upon a time, just as Uncle Wiggily was going to hop away from his hollow-stump bungalow to go look for a coffee cake—Oh, just a moment is very quick—there is something wrong. Please excuse me. The coffee cake comes in the next story.

This time Uncle Wiggily was going to look for an adventure. But, just as he started away from his bungalow he heard Baby Bunty crying.

"Dear me! I hope nothing has happened," said the rabbit gentleman and he stopped hopping very quickly, for he loved Baby Bunty.

It was seldom or hardly ever that the little orphan rabbit cried, so Mr. Longears knew that when she did something must have happened.

"What's the matter, Bunty?" asked Mr. Longears, running around the corner of his hollow-stump bungalow, for it was from there that he could hear Bunty sobbing. "Are you hurt, Bunty?" he asked.

"Just look at her."

"You aren't a doctor, are you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Baby Bunty, using all the baby talk she was permitted. And I think it was very brave of her not to use any more than those two words. "Uncle Wiggily." For she was crying and in trouble and I believe Mr. Longears himself would have allowed the orphan rabbit a few more words of baby talk just then, under the circumstances, so to speak.

"But Bunty only used two. Around the corner of the bungalow came hopping the little orphan rabbit. In her paws she carried a limp doll. "Just look at her, Uncle Wiggily," said Bunty. "Poor dollie!"

No wonder Bunty said "poor dollie." For her little pet child, whom she loved very much, was more like a wet dish-rag than a doll. Instead of being stiff and upright, like a proper doll, this one was slumpy, limpy and slow.

"What happened to her?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, said Bunty, "I left her out on the porch while I went in to get her a drink of molasses water and when I came back Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow were playing ball with her."

"You don't mean to say," exclaimed Mr. Longears, "that those two little puny dogs were playing ball with your doll?"

"That's what they were," said Baby Bunty. "Peetle took my doll up in his paws and tossed her to his brother Jackie, and Jackie caught her in his teeth and he tore her dress and when I chased them away and picked up my doll she was all slumpy, limpy and sloppy as you see her now. She must be awful sick. What happened?"

"Why, it is very easy to see what has happened," said Uncle Wiggily. "All the sawdust stuffing has run out of your doll through the holes Jackie tore with his sharp teeth. Those puppy dogs were bad little chaps. They shouldn't have done this. I must speak to them."

"But what can you do about my sick dollie?" asked Baby Bunty, who still has tears in her eyes.

"I will take her to the toy shop where I bought her for you," said the rabbit, "and the toy store cat lady will put new sawdust inside your doll, sew up the holes and she will be as good as ever."

"Oh, joy and happiness!" said Bunty, hopping up and down. "And may I come with you?"

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily. "Hop along."

Mr. Longears and Baby Bunty hopped to the toy shop. It did not take the cat lady, who kept it, long to stuff new sawdust in the torn doll and sew her up. How happy Baby Bunty was then.

"And here," moved the cat lady to Uncle Wiggily. "Is a bag of extra sawdust you may take home with you. Then if any of the other dolls get torn under their sawdust leaks out, you may fill it in yourself."

"Thanks," said Uncle Wiggily. So he carried the bag of sawdust and Bunty carried her doll. On their way home through the woods, out from behind a tree popped the Weasel. He was a Bad Chap.

"I'm going to nibble Baby Bunty!" squeaked the Weasel.

"Oh, no you aren't, for there is going to be a hard shower!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"What kind of a shower?" asked the Weasel.

"A sawdust shower!" cried brave Mr. Longears. With that he showered a lot of the extra sawdust the cat lady had given him into the eyes of the Weasel. And then the Bad Chap couldn't see to nibble Bunty for his eyes were filled with sawdust. So away ran Mr. Longears and the little orphan rabbit safe and sound with the mended dollie. All was well.

So if the new broom isn't too proud to dance with the old dusting brush, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's coffee cake.

AT THE CAPITOL
IN NEW FEATURE

One of the most hilarious comedies of the year is now playing at the Capitol Theatre. Laughs are thicker than rice in China, when the dynamic Winnie Lightner goes into action, aided and abetted by those clowns of clowns, Olsen and Johnson. The picture is "Gold Dust Gertie," and is an excuse for these supreme laugh pedlars to parade their wares on the silver sheet. The picture which gives every evidence of breaking all laugh records for this season is the story of matrimonial tangles, bathing suits, new and old, two men married to twin sisters, and a bathing suit model who wants to marry her boss, who hates divorcees. Needless to say there are many complications, a good old-fashioned comedy chase, some very beautiful girls clad in the newest bathing suits, a brand new line of Lightner comedy and plenty of the hokum that Olsen and Johnson have become famous for. Since Winnie Lightner made "Gold Diggers of Broadway" she has been an Al comedy bet for the screen, and her many fans will not be disappointed in this latest laugh epic of the tomboy of the talkies. With Olsen and Johnson, she provides most of the merriment, but Claude Gillingwater, Dorothy Christie, Vivienne Oakland, Charles Judels, Virginia Sale and others help along with very clever characterizations.

DOMINION THEATRE

Maurice Chevalier is now showing at the Dominion Theatre in "The Smiling Lieutenant." "The Smiling Lieutenant" has the whole of Maurice Chevalier bound up in a single joyous role. His captivating personality, his sly and wicked love-making, his meaningful singing of the meaningful lyrics, all these things, which each of his pictures to now have presented in part, are projected at full force from the screen in "The Smiling Lieutenant." The picture is another of those delicious Ernst Lubitch productions, but, unlike "The Love Parade," it is a real, down-to-earth comedy romance dealing with a smart and carefree soldier whose smile wins him the heart of two women. It has delightful comedy moments interspersed with these emotional scenes. Claudette Colbert and Miriam Hopkins are the sweethearts who turn Chevalier's head and heart.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

There is something about the mystery story that seems to rest the tired business man, makes him forget her household troubles, even enlisting and holding the attention of sister, brother and his girl friend. When all else fails, "Who committed the crime?" is one of those intriguing questions that keeps everyone on the alert until it is definitely known "who did it." In the new Columbia feature, "Subway Express," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, instead of the usual two or three, there are exactly thirty people to suspect of murder. This picture, which was transferred to the screen from the famous New York stage play of the same name, has all of its action develop in the crowded coach of a subway train. To make the mystery more intense the question arises as to not only who killed the man but how he was killed.

BILLIE BURKE SHOULD PROVE
POPULAR HERE

"The Vinegar Tree," Here
Next Monday and Tuesday,
Is Ideal Vehicle For Her

Billie Burke, vivacious, scintillating and Titian-haired, is coming to this city again and will be seen at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings, in "The Vinegar Tree." It has been a long time since Billie Burke appeared here and therefore it is doubly fortunate that she is coming in a rollickingly polite comedy which is said to offer the charming star the best part she has had in years. "The Vinegar Tree" ran most of the past season in New York and so conspicuously like Billie Burke is the role of Laura Merrick that Belasco and Curran finally induced the lady to make a brief tour of the west to renew popularity that she enjoyed during the seasons when she was a regular visitor to the Pacific Coast. Looks, charm, an infectious smile and an irrepressible buoyancy give Billie Burke a stage personality that has carried her to great heights in the esteem of the theatre-going public. It will be remembered that she was one of the particular bright stars in the Frohman group and her earlier successes were among the pronounced dramatic hits of the day. As Laura Merrick in "The Vinegar Tree," she appears as a wife craving romance instead of the hum-drum of a home presided over by an all too matter-of-fact husband. She is so satiated with the idea of romance that she even imagines entanglements for herself and her efforts to relieve an affair of her younger days provide many extremely ludicrous situations. Miss Burke simply romps through three acts of delightful comedy. Belasco and Curran have surrounded her with an exceptionally fine supporting company. The cast includes John Marston, William Morris, Frances Woodbury, Julie Dillon, Charles Baron and Harry C. Bradley.

Elissa Landi Stars With Lewis Stone At Playhouse Theatre

Among the many outstanding features of the Fox production, "Always Goodbye," now at the Playhouse Theatre, which stars the gorgeous Venetian beauty, Elissa Landi, are the exquisite settings and photography. William Darling, who served as art director on the production, had the full co-operation of William Cameron Menzies, one of the co-directors, on the design and construction of all the sets. Menzies was awarded the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences medal for the best art direction of last year.

"Always Goodbye" is the first co-directorial assignment of Menzies and Kenneth MacKenna. It tells the romantic and thrilling story of a young society girl, who, upon finding herself bankrupt, escapes the life of an adventures rather than one of poverty. Supporting Miss Landi is an all star cast, headed by Lewis Stone and Paul Cavanagh in the male leads. Other celebrities portraying important roles are John Garrick, Lumsden Hare, Frederick Kerr and Herbert Hunston.

COLISEUM THEATRE

The largest and one of the most powerful casts ever engaged in a British film production is that which portrays the spectacular screen masterpiece "Tell England," now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. The total number of actors which includes, in addition to the distinguished presence of General Sir Ian Hamilton, some of the best known stage and film artists, a great number of Royal Marines lent by the Admiralty to the film company, is in the region of 9,000 persons.

The acting cast is headed by one of the country's most talented and popular stage stars, Fay Compton, who makes her talkie debut in "Tell England." Carl Harbord, who is regarded as England's young film hope, plays the leading male role with Tony Bruce, a new discovery and an ex-naval officer, as his friend. Others who give outstanding performances are Denis Hoey, C. M. Hallard, Frederick Lloyd, Gerald Rawlinson and Hubert Harben, while Lionel Hedges, the well-known county cricketer and Oxford blue who has played for Kent and Gloucestershire, has an important part.

COMING TO COLISEUM

Ten acres of Radio Pictures' ranch were turned into fair grounds for "Cracked Nuts," the lavishly produced comedy featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, at the Coliseum on Saturday.

Merry-go-rounds, lemonade and hot dog stands, fortune-telling booths, medicine shows, hawkers, snake charmers and all the elements of a county fair were reproduced in perfect detail under the supervision of Max Ree, art director.

The set is typical of the fifteen others which make "Cracked Nuts" not only one of the funniest Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey vehicles, but a picture that will compare with any in the magnitude of its settings.
